Executive Summary

AXIOM version 7.5.0.37231, was run in its default configuration against the test image Khyrenz-FileCarving-ClusterBoundaries.001^[1].

The below table is a summary of the test files that AXIOM carved from this image.

As this table shows, 39.2% of the test files were recovered exactly; the SHA1 file hashes were a match to the original files. In total, 59.5% of the original files were recovered in a usable state and could be successfully viewed, whilst 40.5% of the original files could not be carved in a usable state.

None of the 7z, HEIC, MP3, SVG, TIFF, WAV, or ZIP files were successfully carved.

In addition, 111 extra files were carved.

Introduction

Khyrenz Ltd is a Digital Forensic consultancy based in the UK. We provide this report to document our tool validation process against AXIOM version 7.5.0.37231.

Scope

This report documents the results obtained by testing file carving capability within AXIOM, version 7.5.0.37231, against the raw image file: Khyrenz-FileCarving-ClusterBoundaries.001. This image file, as well as a full list of files contained within this image, are provided at: <https://www.khyrenz.com/resources/>.

AXIOM was run on a Windows 10 Professional 22H2 system and the default configuration was used unless otherwise stated below. The following options were selected:

- PROCESSING DETAILS (enable):
 - Calculate hash values for all files
 - Find more artifacts
- ARTIFACT DETAILS → COMPUTER ARTIFACTS (enable):
 - CUSTOM ARTIFACTS: Carved Archives
 - DOCUMENTS: Excel, Microsoft Office, PDF, PowerPoint, Word
 - MEDIA (all)

Measuring Test Results

How well the tool performs against expected results is categorized as follows:

1. Exact match: Number of carved files that match on SHA1 file hash to an original test file
2. Usable match: Number of carved files that can be successfully opened and viewed, and appear similar to an original test file, so can be reasonably determined to be a 'usable' version of an original
3. Not found: No carved files match the hash or appear similar to any original files
4. False positive: A carved file is a valid file and can be opened/viewed, but is not similar to an original file (for example, may be an embedded file within an original file)
5. Invalid file: A carved file that cannot be opened or viewed

Test Data

Test Image Creation Process

A selection of test files of varying file formats was collected or generated, and then copied onto a USB device, which had been formatted to contain a 2GB NTFS volume. A raw logical image of the USB device volume was generated using FTK Imager 4.2.0.13^[2]. This image was then manually edited to remove all clusters containing NTFS metadata.
